What is the purpose of the guidance?
The guidance has been designed to support schools in the development of a planned progressive programme for PSHE and Citizenship. The guidance provides an overview of the requirements for schools in these aspects, an introductory guidance on best practice in PSHE and Citizenship, an entitlement framework, the North Yorkshire ladder of progress for PSHE/Citizenship and guidance on resources to support the delivery of PSHE and Citizenship.

What is Personal, Social, Health Education (PSHE) and Citizenship?
PSHE education is a planned, developmental programme of learning through which pupils acquire the knowledge, understanding and skills they need to manage their lives now and in the future. As part of a whole-school approach, PSHE education develops the qualities and attributes pupils need to thrive as individuals, family members and members of society. PSHE education equips pupils to live healthy, safe, productive, capable, responsible and balanced lives. It encourages them to be enterprising and supports them in making effective transitions, positive learning and career choices and in achieving economic wellbeing. A critical component of PSHE education is providing opportunities for children and young people to reflect on and clarify their own values and attitudes and explore the complex and sometimes conflicting range of values and attitudes they encounter now and in the future. PSHE education contributes to personal development by helping pupils to build their confidence, resilience and self-esteem, and to identify and manage risk, make informed choices and understand what influences their decisions. It enables them to recognise, accept and shape their identities, to understand and accommodate difference and change, to manage emotions and to communicate constructively in a variety of settings. Developing an understanding of themselves, empathy and the ability to work with others will help pupils to form and maintain good relationships, develop the essential skills for future employability and better enjoy and manage their lives (PSHE association 2017).

Citizenship education helps to provide pupils with knowledge, skills and understanding to prepare them to play a full and active part in society. It should foster pupils’ keen awareness and understanding of democracy, government and how laws are made and upheld. Pupils should be equipped with the skills and knowledge to explore political and social issues critically, to weigh evidence, debate and make reasoned arguments. It should also prepare pupils to take their place in society as responsible citizens, manage their money well and make sound financial decisions.
Further Training and Networking Opportunities

Education and Skills service provide a range of training and networking opportunities to support schools deliver an effective and planned approach to PSHE and Citizenship and related issues. To access further information and to book all courses please go to Smart Solutions via www.northyorks.gov.uk/smartsolutions or e-mail smartsolutions@northyorks.gov.uk. If you are having difficulty registering with Smart Solutions or booking on courses please telephone the Support Unit on 01609 533222.

We run central training and networks and also provide a range of bespoke training to individual / cluster of schools which include:

- Termly PSHE, Citizenship, Equalities and Health and Wellbeing networks
- National PSHE CPD qualification (Accredited by the University of Roehampton)
- Relationships and Sex Education training
- Drugs, alcohol and tobacco training
- Online safety training
- Challenging homophobic, biphobic and transphobic bullying, celebrating difference and supporting LGBT young people
- Prevent Training including training on extreme ideologies
- Spiritual, Moral, Social Cultural (SMSC) Provision / British Values
- Student voice and school council training

Position of PSHE and Citizenship in the national curriculum

- PSHE education is presently a non-statutory subject on the school curriculum. However, section 2.5 of the national curriculum states that all state schools ‘should make provision for personal, social, health and economic education (PSHE), drawing on good practice’. The Department for Education allows schools to design their own PSHE curriculum, to reflect the needs of pupils.
- In addition to the national curriculum framework, the Department for Education guidance on PSHE states that the subject is ‘an important and necessary part of all pupils’ education’ and that ‘schools should seek to use PSHE education to build, where appropriate, on the statutory content already outlined in the national curriculum, the basic school curriculum and in statutory guidance on: drug education, financial education, Relationships and Sex Education (SRE) and the importance of physical activity and diet for a healthy lifestyle.’
- Citizenship education is not a statutory subject at key stage 1-2 but it remains a statutory entitlement at Key Stages 3 and 4 and from September 2014 it incorporated Financial Capability.
Maintained schools are required to publish details of the curriculum by year group for all subjects, including PSHE education on their school website. This should be with the same level of detail as for all other subjects.

Academies, free schools and independent schools are not bound by the national curriculum, however all schools share the statutory duties outlined in the sections below.

The Government announced in March 2017 that Relationships and Sex Education will become statutory in September 2019 and Personal, Social, Health Education (PSHE) may also become statutory. The government will be consulting on the final requirements for schools but they have developed a policy statement which is available at https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/relationships-education-rse-and-pshe. The policy statement includes the following information:

- The subjects would be made part of the basic school curriculum, which allows schools flexibility in developing their planned programme, integrated within a broad and balanced curriculum. All primary schools (maintained, academies or independent) will be required to provide relationships education (and will retain their current choice to teach age-appropriate sex education). All secondary schools (maintained, academies or independent) will be required to provide RSE. Pending the outcome of review work, all primary and secondary schools may be required to provide PSHE or elements of it.
- Implementation should be planned at an appropriate pace to allow schools to start the work now, making steady, effective improvements to their provision. This ensures that we schools are building an evidence-based approach to reform that works for schools and makes sure that all children benefit from a more consistent approach.
- There is a need to ensure the subjects are carefully designed to safeguard and support pupils and are deliverable for schools. Nevertheless, we are clear on the themes and issues they should cover, in an age-appropriate way, to achieve this. Relationships and RSE will be age-appropriate, building knowledge and life skills over time in a way that prepares pupils for issues they will soon face. They will likely focus on:
  - different types of relationships, including friendships, family relationships, dealing with strangers and, at secondary school, intimate relationships;
  - how to recognise, understand and build healthy relationships, including self-respect and respect for others, commitment, tolerance, boundaries and consent, and how to manage conflict, and also how to recognise unhealthy relationships;
  - how relationships may affect health and wellbeing, including mental health;
  - healthy relationships and safety online; and
  - factual knowledge, at secondary school, around sex, sexual health and sexuality, set firmly within the context of relationships
- They have committed to retain parents’ right to withdraw their child from sex education within RSE (other than sex education in the National Curriculum as part of science) as currently, but not from relationships education at primary.

PSHE Education as a means to fulfilling the statutory duties on schools including Safeguarding

The Education Act 2002 and the Academies Act 2010 sets out the following duties and whole school Ofsted inspections consider the extent to which a school provides such a curriculum:

- which is balanced and broadly based
- promotes the spiritual, moral, social, cultural, mental and physical development of pupils at the school and of society
• prepares pupils at the school for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life

Schools also have duties in relation to promoting pupil wellbeing and pupil safeguarding defined in the Children Act 2004 as 'the promotion of physical and mental health; emotional wellbeing; social and economic wellbeing; education, training and recreation; recognition of the contribution made by children to society; and protection from harm and neglect.' (Children Act 2004) and community cohesion (Education Act 2006).

The Equality Act 2010 also places duties on schools not just to address prejudice-based bullying but also to help to prevent it happening, and in doing so to keep protected characteristic groups safe. PSHE education, with its focus on identity and equality, can help schools to fulfil this duty

PSHE education and safeguarding are inextricably linked. Paragraph 68 of the statutory guidance on Keeping Children Safe in Education, the Department for Education states, “Governing bodies and proprietors should ensure children are taught about safeguarding, including online, through teaching and learning opportunities, as part of providing a broad and balanced curriculum. This may include covering relevant issues through personal, social, health and economic education (PSHE).” Specific issues referred to in the document include child sexual exploitation, domestic violence, female genital mutilation, forced marriage, substance misuse, sexting, relationship abuse and preventing radicalisation.

The NYCC Safeguarding Audit for Schools, updated in November 2016 references the contribution that PSHE makes to safeguarding. The document and other supporting documents can be accessed at: http://cyps.northyorks.gov.uk/safeguarding

How does PSHE education contribute to Ofsted inspections?
Appendix 1 sets out in further detail the PSHE and Citizenship aspects of the Ofsted Inspection Framework

PSHE education can make a significant contribution to whole-school judgments under the Ofsted Common Inspection Framework, particularly in the areas of safeguarding, personal development, behaviour and welfare, as well as leadership and management. It will be significantly easier for schools to adequately evidence that they are meeting inspection criteria in these areas if they have a planned, developmental PSHE and Citizenship programme in place. Ofsted inspection framework makes clear that ‘the responsibilities placed on governing bodies, registered providers, proprietors and management committees include: ‘making sure children and learners are taught how to keep themselves safe’, with Ofsted's previous PSHE Lead Janet Palmer HMI stating that ‘it is difficult to see how safeguarding can be good if PSHE education is poor’.

If PSHE lessons are observed as part of a whole school Section 5 inspection, inspectors will expect the same standards of teaching and learning as they would in any other subject. Poor PSHE education lessons can therefore impact on a school’s overall judgment for quality of teaching, learning and assessment. Before making a final judgement on overall effectiveness, inspectors must also evaluate the effectiveness and impact of the provision for pupils’ spiritual, moral, social and cultural (SMSC) development, with PSHE education playing a key role in this.

Curriculum delivery models for PSHE and Citizenship
‘PSHE education should be taught in discrete lessons, supported by other learning opportunities across the curriculum, including the use of enhancement days where possible. This is the position taken by Ofsted’ (PSHE association recommendation August 2016).
A number of other models can be used to supplement discrete lessons with dedicated curriculum time. These include:

- learning opportunities in other curriculum subjects (PSHE education provision integrated within other subjects but pupils being clear when they are being taught PSHE knowledge, skills and attitudes/values)
- whole school and extended timetable activities that enhance the taught curriculum time
- cross-curricular projects
- one-to-one or small group support and guidance on specific areas of learning and development
- learning through involvement in the life of the school and wider community

These opportunities, wherever they occur, should be planned, coordinated, assessed, monitored and evaluated. Pupils should be involved in this process, influencing provision from the start as well as having a say in how learning develops.

Citizenship is a statutory National Curriculum foundation subject in secondary schools but not in primary schools. The citizenship programme of study for key stage 3-4 could be used to guide what is taught in primary schools as it sets out the following aims:

- acquire a sound knowledge and understanding of how the United Kingdom is governed, its political system and how citizens participate actively in its democratic systems of government
- develop a sound knowledge and understanding of the role of law and the justice system in our society and how laws are shaped and enforced
- develop an interest in, and commitment to, participation in volunteering as well as other forms of responsible activity, that they will take with them into adulthood
- are equipped with the skills to think critically and debate political questions, to enable them to manage their money on a day-to-day basis, and plan for future financial needs.

The Association of Citizenship Teaching states that “for a schools to be a, ‘Citizenship-rich school’ it requires: specialist Citizenship teachers, discrete curriculum time (parity in the curriculum with all other subjects) and senior leadership understanding and support because as a subject it has a special pedagogy characterised by student voice and action, which has the potential to transform learning in all other subjects. And as more than a subject, Citizenship has a role to play in building a participatory, democratic community across the whole school. This is known as the ‘3Cs of Citizenship’ and is very much supported by the new curriculum; Citizenship in the Curriculum, wider Community and Culture of the school”.

Careers Guidance

There is statutory guidance for secondary schools on, ‘Careers guidance and inspiration in schools’ but children in primary schools often report that they would also like to learn more about careers and the pathways to a variety of jobs at an earlier age. The Career Development Institute have developed a Framework for careers, employability and enterprise education which does include learning outcome for key stage 2 pupils. They have been included in the entitlement framework.

What is the Relationship between PSHE and Citizenship and a whole school approach to pupil’s health and wellbeing

The diagram on shows the inter-relationship between a taught PSHE programme and a whole schools approach to pupil’s health and wellbeing (adapted from the PSHE association model). The planned PSHE and Citizenship provision is a taught ‘school subject’. To achieve an effective whole school... approach to pupil wellbeing there needs to be PSHE education. With PSHE education working together with pastoral care, the schools are not only keeping pupils safe and well, and supporting them when things go wrong, but are also equipping pupils to make positive choices to keep themselves and others safe and healthy, manage their own behaviour and relationships and to know and be able to independently access the sources of support they need for themselves or when they are worried about a friend’ (PSHE association July 2016).
NYCC Key Stage 1-2 PSHE and Citizenship Guidance for Schools September 2017

The research base for effective PSHE and Citizenship programmes:

- A taught programme that is part of whole school approach. A whole school approach should ensure that the curriculum, school policies, pastoral support and school ethos complement each other to create an environment that helps to prevent negative behaviours.

- Establishing and maintaining a safe and secure learning environment and a school ethos which promotes positive relationships between peers, and between pupils and staff. PSHE and Citizenship lessons explore pupils’ everyday lives and does include potentially sensitive and personal issues. It is crucial that staff establish and maintain a safe teaching and learning environment in the classroom through the following well identified successful methods:
  - Establishing ground rules with pupils so there is shared ownership of them (not imposing them on the pupils)
  - Using ‘distancing techniques’ e.g case studies so pupils are not been asked to talk about their experiences but talk about what is happening to the characters in the case study. This distancing creates an emotional space between pupils and the issue that is being explored. Pupils may be asked to reflect on their own personal attributes, attitudes and skills but this should be done in safe way and not by putting pupils ‘on the spot’
  - Knowing how to deal with unexpected and spontaneous questions from pupils. Pupils will be encouraged to ask questions in PSHE so it is important that staff can handle all questions that may be asked or use methods like the ‘question box’.

- The taught programme is more successful when the learning outcomes are clear to the pupils and a planned and sequenced set of activities are used to develop and practice the intended skills.

- Well trained staff and if possible a specialised PSHE teaching team. Staff who feel confident and comfortable teaching PSHE with access to ongoing CPD. A PSHE / Citizenship subject leader who has parity to other subject leaders and equal time, status and resources to other subjects.

- Interactive learning that focuses on skills and attributes developed through the context of subject knowledge. One of the key aims of PSHE Education is to develop skills, strategies and attributes to enable pupils to make and then enact on a decision. ‘Choices are made through a complex combination of previous experiences, knowledge and understanding, filtered through the individual’s values, attitudes and beliefs.’ Therefore a didactic approach in which pupils passively listen or watch will not achieve this aim. Active learning strategies are required which enable pupils to practice a range of skills within the safety of the classroom on scenarios that are realistic to them. Research has found the following to be key aspects that require developing for every pupil:
  - Problem solving skills
  - Decision making skills
  - Cognitive skills for resisting peer pressure / media influences
  - Increased self-control/ management and self esteem
  - Opportunities for self-reflection and self-assessment and supported by motivational strategies
  - Coping strategies for stress
  - Social and assertiveness skills
• Healthy relationships skills

• A development programme matched to the age, stage and maturity which start ‘where pupils are’. The spiral curriculum is especially important in PSHE and Citizenship and needs to ensure the taught planned programme is progressive with topics taught in a logical order taking into consideration the changing needs of young people as they grow older and develop. To ensure the programme is meeting the needs of the pupils staff must always assess the needs of pupils to understand their current understanding, culture and experiences. The bi-annual Growing up in North Yorkshire survey can provide a wealth of information to support the planning and reviewing of the curriculum to ensure it is meeting the needs of the pupils.

• A social norms approach. This evidence based approach uses the influence of peers on behaviour in a positive way. Young people over estimate the behaviours of other young people and this can lead them to engage in risky behaviours as they think that ‘everyone else of my age is doing it’. e.g when asked how many year 10 pupils in North Yorkshire are regular smokers pupils will often respond 50-60% when the data from the Growing up in North Yorkshire survey (GuNY) 2016 showed it to be only 5%. ‘A social norms approach provides pupils with accurate, realistic and relevant information that reinforces and actively promotes ‘positive social norms’. The data from the GuNY surveys provide schools with a wealth of data to implement this evidence based approach for teaching effective PSHE.

• Avoiding the use of shock, fear or guilt. Research has found that attempts to induce shock, fear or guilt are ineffective and for some young people could increase the likelihood of them engaging in the risky behaviour. For some young people the fear felt in the safe environment of a classroom can lead them to wanting to repeat that experience. For some they react by saying ‘it won't happen to me’. Some pupils will be traumatised and if a pupil has some personal experience it may re-traumatise. This is not saying that PSHE and Citizenship lessons should not explore the full range of consequences of a behaviour or choice but the lessons should avoid just focusing on the extremes.

• Assessing learning and evaluating provision. This is not about assessing a pupils individual character or behaviour but rather, ‘the extent to which they are progressing in their learning, their on going learning needs and the impact the programme is having on them and their peers’
  • Evaluation is about the process- how effective were those activities? What will I change next time I teach this?
  • Assessment refers to activities that gauge an individual’s learning and development and identify what still needs to be learned. Assessment in PSHE is essential as it: increases motivation and improves learning, provides feedback about pupil’s progress and achievements, helps pupils reflect on and identify what they have learned and what they need to do to continue learning, it allows the leadership team to see the impact PSHE provision is having for pupils and for whole school outcomes.
  • See page 21 for further guidance on assessment in PSHE and Citizenship.

The Entitlement Framework

The Entitlement Framework is not intended to be a prescriptive scheme of work as attempting to cover all of the suggested content contained in the programme of study may lead to a series of superficial experiences that would most likely be restricted to providing information. Schools should ensure that their curriculum provision for PSHE and Citizenship meets the needs of its pupils and community and pupils are able to develop essential skills and attributes as well as information. However, the entitlement frameworks do provide a suggested guide to the essential components of a robust programme for PSHE and Citizenship. Key Stages from 1-3 have been provided in the planning tool to aid transition and continuity of learning.

The Entitlement Framework Key Stages 1-2 is structured into 6 themes:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Me and My Relationship</th>
<th>Keeping Myself Safe</th>
<th>My Healthy Lifestyle</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Me and My Future</td>
<td>Becoming an active citizen</td>
<td>Moving on</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Intended learning outcomes for the themes are provided for each year group. The learning outcomes comprise the knowledge, understanding and skills that learners need to develop in order to live safe, happy and healthy lives. Learning outcomes have been developed with reference to PSHE Association’s Programme of Study, the Career Development Institute Framework for careers, employability and enterprise education and Pfeg’s ‘Learning about Money Primary Planning Framework’.

Schools may use the Entitlement Framework to:
• Provide the basis of a scheme of work
• Track progression and identify gaps in existing PSHE and Citizenship planning
• Identify opportunities for cross-curricular work
• Support projects and enrichment events for example anti-bullying week or healthy lifestyles project

Links with Statutory National Curriculum requirements
It is important that cross curriculum links are made for the pupils with related topics in Science, Maths, RE, History, Geography and other related subjects taught at the school.

The learning outcomes are colour coded to illustrate where the aspects of PSHE and Citizenship are covered within the themes (risk taking and keeping safe are weaved throughout the aspects):

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sex and Relationships</th>
<th>Online safety</th>
</tr>
</thead>

PSHE education makes a significant contribution to the development of a wide range of essential skills. These need to be an integral part of the planning for an effective curriculum. These have been taken from the PSHE Association Education programme of study January 2017

Me and my future

I can recognise the coins and notes we use
- I can choose the correct value of coins and calculate change
- I know that we have to pay for what we buy
- I know how to keep money safe
- I know that I don’t have to spend my money but can save it to use later

I can set myself simple goals
- I can identify positive things about myself and recognise and celebrate my strengths and say what I enjoy about school and things I do outside of school
- I can describe the work that people do in my family, my school and where I live.

Becoming an active citizen
- I can express a simple opinion, agreement and disagreement
- I can ask questions and listen to the answers
- I play a full part in the life of my classroom
- I can agree and follow rules for my group and classroom
- I understand the role of the school council and I am able to vote for the members

Moving on
- I can identify positive achievements during my time in Year 1
- I can identify my strengths, areas for improvement and set myself some goals for Year 2
- I can explain what I am worried about and what I am looking forward to in Year 2
- I know what to expect when I start Year 2
- I know some of the reasons why change can feel uncomfortable
- I know some of the ways of dealing with the feelings that sometimes arise from changes

Me and my future

I know that we can pay for things in a range of ways and that even when not using cash, money is being used
- I understand that the choices we make affect ourselves and others
- I can explain the difference between needs and wants
- I understand individuals and families have to find ways to balance wants and needs
- I understand that it may not be possible to have everything you want, straight away, if at all

I can describe why learning is important
- I am positive about who I am, what I have achieved and take into account what other people say about me

I am aware that everyone has the same choices and opportunities in learning, careers and work (genders, different ethnicities, different backgrounds, etc)

Becoming an active citizen
- I can participate in making and changing rules
- I know why different rules are needed in different situations
- I know that choices we make can impact on the local, national and global communities
- I know where to find impartial advice to inform my decision making
- I understand the media can be biased
- I can empathise with other people and situations through topical issues, problems and local and global events

Moving on
- I can identify positive achievements during my time in Year 3
- I can identify my strengths, areas for improvement and set myself some goals for Year 4
- I know what I am worried about and what I am looking forward to in Year 4
- I know what to expect when I start Year 4
- I can understand why other people are behaving as they are when they are finding change difficult.
Me and my relationships
I feel good about myself and my body and have an understanding of how the media presents ‘body image’
I understand that my body and emotions will change as I grow older
I can recognise what love is
I know that there are different kinds of families and partnerships (includes same sex)
I can demonstrate the features of a good healthy friendship
I know the importance of taking care of my own body, whilst respecting cultural Differences
I can name people who look after me, my networks and who to go to if I am worried and how to attract their attention
I can respond appropriately to other people’s feelings
I understand the language used to describe changes and feelings
I can acknowledge that others have different points of view
I can recognise my worth as an individual and the worth of other people
I can identify positive things about myself, recognise some of my mistakes and learn from them
I can set personal goals

Keeping myself safe
I know the difference between risk, danger and hazard
I can describe what risk means to me
I can take responsibility for my own behaviour and safety and realise that actions have consequences
I can recognise, predict and assess risk, relating to myself and others and know how to get help (includes risks in the home, road, farm, - water, rail, electricity and personal safety)
I have some effective strategies to cope with peer influence and peer pressure
I know that not everything on the internet is true and know what to do if I access something inappropriate
I can use a range of online communication tools safely to exchange information with others within and beyond school e.g. school’s learning platform, email, instant messaging, social networking, online gaming, and mobile phones
I understand the need to keep some information private in order to protect myself when communicating online and I implement strategies to do this
I recognise how online communications may be used for manipulation or persuasion and I have ways of managing this

My healthy lifestyle
I can identify some factors (positive and negative) that affect physical, mental and emotional health e.g. relationships with family and friends, stress levels, physical activity, diet, self-image, media and have started to develop ways of countering the negative factors
I can make informed choices about healthy eating and exercising
I have a range of strategies for managing and controlling strong feelings and emotions

Me and My future
I can demonstrate how to look after and save money
I can begin to develop an understanding that people have different financial circumstances

Me and my relationships
I understand simple, safe routines to prevent the spread of bacteria and viruses
I can name and explain male and female body parts, relating to Sex and Relationship Education
I know the ways in which boys and girls grow and develop in puberty – physically and emotionally
I recognise, as I approach puberty, how people’s emotions change at that time and how to deal with my feelings towards myself, my family and others in a positive way
I am aware of different types of relationships and what makes them a positive, healthy relationships and I have the skills to form and maintain a healthy relationship
I can name people who look after me, my networks and who to go to if I am worried and how to attract their attention
I know who are individuals, families and groups can get help and support
I understand the importance of being respectful to everyone and to recognise and care about others people’s feelings but if appropriate I feel able to confidentially challenge their view point

Keeping myself safe
I can identify strategies I can use to keep myself physically and emotionally safe including road safety, cycle safety and in the local environment (rail, farm, water and fire)
I know which commonly available substances (alcohol, tobacco, medicines) and drugs are legal and illegal, and their effects and risks
I know that the pressure to behave in an unacceptable, unhealthy or risky way can come from a variety of sources including people I know and the media
I recognise that not all information on the internet is accurate or unbiased (advertising) and develop strategies for identifying the origin of a website
I can use online tools safely to exchange information and collaborate with others within and beyond school
I understand how some people use online technology to bully other people and I know how to seek help if this happens to me or a friend
I understand the potential risks of providing personal information in an increasing range on online technologies both within and outside school
I can use a range of strategies to protect my personal information, including passwords, addresses and images of myself and others
I understand that the person that I think I am communicating with on-line may not be who they say they are.
I know how to present myself safely online eg social media sites, online gaming
I know how to manage requests for images of myself or others; what is and is not appropriate to ask for or share; who to talk to if I feel uncomfortable and are concerned by such a request

My healthy lifestyle
I know what makes a healthy lifestyle - the benefits of exercise and healthy eating and the factors (positive and negative) that affect mental health, including having a positive self-image.
I know where individuals, families and groups can get help and support
I can express my views confidently to listen and to show respect for the views of others
I can resolve differences, looking at alternatives, making decisions and
I can begin to understand the different values and attitudes that people have with regard to money
I recognise the range of jobs carried out by people they know
I can explain how I will develop skills for work in the future
I am aware that the learning choices I make will affect my future options.
I can identify my strengths, areas for improvement and set high aspirations and goals.

Becoming an active citizen
I know how rules and laws are made and enforced, why different rules are needed in different situations and how to take part in making and changing rules in school.
I can recognise aggressive and anti-social behaviours such as bullying and discrimination and their effects on individuals and communities, such as travellers, migrants and asylum seekers.
I can begin to respond to, or challenge, negative behaviours such as Stereotyping, homophobia, transphobia and biphobia and racism.
I understand that to resolve differences I need to respect other people’s point of view and respect their decisions but be able to explain my choices and viewpoints.
I understand how my choices may impact on the environment.
I can describe the values of the school and know why they are important.
I can describe the ‘British Values’ and give examples of what they mean in school and in society.
I can demonstrate respect and tolerance towards people different from myself.

Me and My future
I can deal positively with my feelings and recognise a range of emotions in others, and can explain the intensity of my feelings to others.
I understand what resilience is and have strategies I can use to build my own resilience.

Me and My future
I am able to make considered decisions about saving, spending and giving
I can differentiate between essentials and desires – needs and wants
I understand ‘value for money’ and can make informed choices to get ‘value for money’
I am able to assess ‘best buys’ in a range of circumstances
I am able to understand and manage feelings about money, my own and Others
I know about the range of jobs carried out by people and some of the stereotypes surrounding some career choices and I am aware of some of the rights and responsibilities when it comes to treating people fairly.
I know and understand how I can develop skills to make a contribution in the Future.

Me and My future
I am starting to consider what I like, what I am good at and what I enjoy doing and can talk positively about my strengths
I know the importance of making a good impression when going through a selection process and I can demonstrate some of the skills required to do this.
I know that there are a range of earnings for different jobs.
I understand that there are a range of benefits from employment, not just financial (making a difference, caring for others, etc.)

Becoming an active citizen
I know what democracy is and how a democratic government works.
I have taken part in democratic events in school (eg: voting for school council, mock election).
I understand the consequences of breaking the law and how the criminal justice system works in the UK.
I know how to access local and national support groups.
I know that circumstances in other countries and cultures may be different from our own.
I understand why some people have chosen to leave their country and migrate to the UK.
I understand the difference between economic migrant, asylum seeker and refugee.
I know about Fair Trade and what it means.
I know that individual and community rights and responsibilities need to be taken into account when making decisions (eg: public enquiries, planning decisions for new roads/housing, etc.)
I understand that choices we make as individuals, a community and a nation impact internationally.
I am beginning to understand that ‘poverty’ might have different meanings to different people in different circumstances.
I can recognise and challenge stereotypes.
I know where to find impartial advice to inform my decision making and understand about media bias.
I can talk and write about my opinions confidently and listen to and show respect for the opinions of others.
I can resolve differences, looking at alternatives, making decisions and explaining choices.

My healthy lifestyle
I recognise that I may experience conflicting emotions and when I need to listen to and overcome my emotions.
I can manage my time to include regular exercise.
I understand that the media can have a positive and negative effect on emotional Health and Wellbeing, e.g. body image, attitudes to different groups.
I can recognise opportunities to make my own choices about food, what might influence my choice and the benefits of eating a balanced diet.
I understand the impact of growth and adolescence on my hygiene, physical activity and nutrition needs.

Me and My future
I can describe how people’s careers are different and how they develop in different ways and I am aware that people feel differently about their different types of work they do.
I can reflect on what I have learnt about careers, employability and enterprise activities and experiences and how the learning relates to my choices.
I can describe a range of local businesses and how they are run and the products and / or services they provide.
I know that I have the same rights and opportunities in learning and work as other people.
I understand that employers must treat all employees equally and there are certain protected characteristics under the Equalities Act.
I know how to keep myself safe when working and what the law says to protect workers.
I can recognise and start to demonstrate some of the key qualities and skills that employers are looking for and to be enterprising.
I understand that money we earn also supports the community.

Becoming an active citizen
I understand how democracy works in the UK at a local, regional and national scale.
I understand that there are other forms of government that are not democratic and can give some examples of these.
I understand what being part of a community means and I can take part more fully in school and community activities.
I can demonstrate a sense of social justice and moral responsibility at school, in the community and towards the environment.
I understand that everyone has human rights and that children have their own special rights set out in the United Nations Declarations of the Rights of the Child.
I understand that resources can be allocated in different ways and that economic choices affect individuals, communities and the environment.
I can research, discuss and debate topical issues, problems and events.
I appreciate the range of national, regional, religious and ethnic identities in the United Kingdom and the benefits of being a multi-cultural nation.
I am aware of how the media present information and that the media can be both a positive and negative influence.
I can critique how the media present information.
I can discuss controversial issues in a mature manner, such as terrorism, migration and racism.

Effective teaching and learning in PSHE and Citizenship lessons
Effective teaching and learning in PSHE and Citizenship occurs when learners have the opportunity to acquire new knowledge, understanding, skills and attitudes in a safe and secure environment.

Key features of good teaching in PSHE and Citizenship include:

- Planning informed by needs analysis
- Safe, secure and positive learning environment
- Skilful management of discussions of sensitive and controversial issues by the teacher and being able to respond appropriately to spontaneous issues
- Active teaching and learning
- Assessment of learners’ progress

Safe and secure learning environment
The learning environment needs to encourage pupils to express views and opinions, whilst respecting the views of others. Clear ground rules/working agreement should be established to provide a framework for lessons and discussions. They also minimise the risk of ill-considered and unintended personal disclosures. Ground rules should stipulate that personal questions should not be asked of staff or pupils. Pupils should be encouraged to avoid giving personal anecdotes or examples. Case studies and distancing techniques are useful way to achieve this. Teachers should take care not to make personal disclosures or illustrate the lesson with examples from their own experiences. Ground rules/working agreement should be negotiated with learners and not imposed on them. Staff should be aware of the school policy on confidentiality and make pupils aware of their duty to report any information that indicated that a pupil may be at risk of harm or danger.

Active teaching and learning methods for PSHE and Citizenship
Teaching and learning methods should ensure that pupils take an active role in the lesson and ultimately take responsibility for their own learning. Plenaries and lesson summaries allow learners to reflect on and assimilate what they have learned. Activities should provide an appropriate level of challenge and allow learners to develop their knowledge, skills, attitudes and understanding. There are a wide range of active learning techniques that can be deployed in PSHE and Citizenship lessons. Further information on effective teaching of PSHE can be accessed through the PSHE association https://www.pshe-association.org.uk/ and for Citizenship from the Association for Citizenship Teaching http://www.teachingcitizenship.org.uk/
Distancing techniques:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Technique</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Agony aunt/uncle</td>
<td>Learners work in small groups to take on the role of an agony aunt/uncle. The group responds to an imaginary problem, scenario or letter. Groups could share their solutions.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Drama/role play/simulations</td>
<td>Learners are given characters or situations to act out. It allows learners to experience an issue or a situation from a different perspective. This strategy is useful for rehearsing responses to situations, especially for learners with SEND. Role play should always take place in small groups and learners should never be forced into situations they are uncomfortable with. It is important to ‘de-role’ learners by engaging them in conversation about the present. It is also advisable for pupils not to take on the role of the ‘persuader’. The scenario could be presented to them for them to work through e.g a friend is offering you a cigarette what could you do?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Case studies (visual and or written)</td>
<td>These can be used to help learners understand the effects and impact of a situation. Soap operas often provide a useful platform for the exploration of issues such as abortion or relationships. Learners could be asked to work out the options available to a character, who could help them and where they could get help.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Create a character</td>
<td>Learners create an imaginary character and build a story about the character eg where they live, friends, hobbies. This enables learners to consider issues from different perspectives.</td>
</tr>

Discussion

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Technique</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Paired, small groups</td>
<td>Small group work is often more effective than whole class discussion. Learners could be given an issue, scenario, character to discuss in pairs then move into 4s to share their thoughts.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Listening Triads</td>
<td>Two people talk, discussing an issue whilst one listens, encourages reflective dialogue. Share discussions and points of views with whole class.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Group discussions</td>
<td>Group discussions are important in PSHE and Citizenship as they give learners a voice and provide an opportunity to develop key skills. In supporting quality reflective discussion, a number of procedural questions prove to be useful for example,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• what reasons do you have?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• how does that compare with what X was saying?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• could there be a different point of view?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• why do you think people behave like that?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• what are the consequence of A compared with B?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• what / how could there be a different outcome?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fishbowl discussion</td>
<td>Place six or seven chairs in an inner circle with the remaining chairs in an outer circle. Discussion only takes place in the inner circle. A spare chair allows learners to move in and out of the inner circle.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Standpoint taking</td>
<td>This allows learners to explore both sides of an issue. Place chairs in 2 concentric circles – each inside chair facing an outside chair. Give learners a statement, the inside chairs should argue in favour, the outside chairs should argue against. Learners can swap places mid-way through the discussion to allow them to argue the alternative case. Learners can reflect on how it felt to argue the case for something they may not agree with.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| Questionnaires and quizzes    | These can provide a useful stimulus for discussion allowing learners to acquire new knowledge and explore issues as they }
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Activity</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Triads</td>
<td>Learners work in groups of 3. 2 members of the group discuss an issue while the 3rd member acts as an observer providing feedback. Roles can be changed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peer questions and Envoying</td>
<td>Learners generate their own questions on the issues/content. A group could generate a series of questions and then choose three to discuss. One pupil could take a question and then move from group to group. Finally, the person goes back to original group and feeds back discussion points raised.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buzz groups</td>
<td>Place learners into groups of 3 or 4. Groups are given a dilemma or scenario to discuss, then return to the whole class to discuss ideas.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cards sorts</td>
<td>Develops dialogic talk, it also forces the need to achieve consensus and negotiate disagreements. Teacher in advance prepares nine cards (quotes, pictures, cartoons). In groups cards are read and discussed and then arranged in a diamond shape with the statements they most agree with at the top and the least at the bottom. This requires the learners to weigh up different points of views, think logically and deal with any dissent. This can provide a useful stimulus for a whole class discussion on a topic.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matching</td>
<td>This requires learners to match up cards eg symptoms of STIs matched with the name of the infection.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Other</td>
<td>This is useful when examining and challenging beliefs and attitudes. The teacher creates a series of controversial statements about the subject or issue explored. The teacher then places statements on a line along the classroom floor/wall: Agree, Disagree, Not sure (in the middle). The teacher reads out a statement and learners stand at various points of the line as to their opinion on the issue. The teacher whilst moving along continuum asks why they have placed themselves there, response is shared not judged. Learners are offered a chance to move to a new position on the line if they have changed their mind, or feel differently about the situation. Some good warm up statements could be – ‘dogs are better than cats’ or ‘summer is better than winter’. This supports the learners get use to what is being asked of them and that there isn’t a ‘right or wrong’ answer.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Continuum 1</td>
<td>A line is drawn across the room (washing line is useful for this). Each end of the line represents the start and finish points eg the start of a new relationship so ‘meet somewhere for the first time’ to ‘live together’. Learners are asked to note down what they think should happen in between and when they think it should happen. This opens up the discussion about the development and expectations of a healthy relationship and also the timeframe.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corridor of conscience/Conscience Alley</td>
<td>Is a technique which exposes conflicts and dilemmas and invites participants to think of multiple perspectives on an issue or situation. (Similar to ‘good angel, bad angel’) The process - The class makes two lines facing each other, in the form of an ally or corridor with enough room for a person to walk easily between them. One individual takes on the role of the character in a key situation. The rest of the class voice the character's thoughts and feelings as they walk past them. It's alright if someone earlier has already said the same thing. It is helpful if you do the exercise more than once as it gives less confident learners the chance to speak. Possibly freeze the character and get learners to voice the thoughts again.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Activity</td>
<td>Description</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>----------------------------------</td>
<td>-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Draw and write</td>
<td>Learners are asked to draw their response to an issue or a question. Underneath the picture, learners explain what they have drawn and why.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graffiti boards/wall</td>
<td>This strategy can be used to establish learners' baseline understanding prior to teaching a topic. The issue or content can be written on the wall and learners write down all the things they know about the issue on the outside of the outline. They can also put questions that they want answered.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Question boxes</td>
<td>Learners write down anonymous questions and post them in the box. The teacher can respond to the questions in the next lesson.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Question display</td>
<td>Learners identify the questions they want to find the answers to. Learners can decide which questions are answered and where they might find the information.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Photographs</td>
<td>Photographs can be used as a stimulus for discussion or as a way of recording learners learning.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Philosophy for Children method</td>
<td>A child-centred method of discussion which gives learners a high degree of ownership of the debate. A stimulus is offered to the class and learners are invited to generate a range of critical questions arising from the stimulus. These questions must be 'philosophical' or capable of being discussed. Learners themselves vote on which question to pursue. The class is seated in a circle, with the teacher as a member of the circle. Some classes are trained to speak without waiting for the teacher to point to them – the rule is not to speak over the top of anyone else. In this way, the class carries the discussion forward for long periods of time with no intervention from the teacher. The standard pattern or procedure of a community of philosophical enquiry is something like this: 1. Preparation - sometimes to still minds, e.g. by meditation, sometimes to stir, e.g. by games 2. Presentation - of a story, picture, or other rich stimulus for enquiry 3. Thinking time - private reflection upon the stimulus 4. Conversation - sharing of private reflections, in twos or threes 5. Formulation - of questions that might be 'good for discussion', individually or in small groups 6. Airing - publication of questions, and clarification of the interest/thinking behind them 7. Selection - of which question(s) to focus on, by whole group consensus or voting 8. 'First words' - initial responses to the chosen question, perhaps identifying assumptions 9. Building - creative and critical thinking towards one or more answers to the question 10. 'Last words' - final reflections on own or others' thinking</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hot seating</td>
<td>This is a questioning technique where the group prepare questions to ask the person in the hot seat. It is best to do this activity in groups first before shifting the hot seating to the front of the class.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mantel of the expert</td>
<td>This technique was developed by Dorothy Heathcote through work with children and teachers. This gives learners a fictional 'frame' within which they can take responsibility for a situation. Learners are given 'expert' information or they may research the information in advance, participants assume responsibility for the activity. The situation is usually task orientated, power and responsibility move from teacher to learners.</td>

Developing Literacy through PSHE and Citizenship

Learners should have the opportunity to apply their literacy skills confidently and competently across all aspects of their learning. PSHE and Citizenship supports literacy through providing opportunities for children to:
Talk clearly and confidently about their thoughts, ideas and opinions, listening to others to refine their thinking
Write, present and broadcast a range of ideas
Analyse, evaluate and criticise texts of all kinds in order to access ideas and information
Read fluently a range of texts

Developing Numeracy through PSHE and Citizenship
There are a range of opportunities to develop learners’ numeracy skills. In PSHE and Citizenship learners should be taught about personal finance which can reinforce topics covered in mathematics such as interest rates and percentages. Citizenship allows learners to learn about how the economy works and how public services are paid for including taxation.

Developing ICT through PSHE and Citizenship
Learners should have the opportunity to apply their ICT knowledge, skills and understanding across all aspects of their learning. PSHE and Citizenship support the development of ICT by providing opportunities for children to:
- Find and select information from digital and on-line sources, making judgements about accuracy and reliability
- Collaborate, communicate and share information to work with a range of audiences
- Re-enforce online safety messages

Assessing learning in PSHE and Citizenship
Assessment of PSHE and Citizenship is not about assessing someone’s ‘character or behaviour’ but the extent to which they are progressing in their learning, their on-going learning needs and the impact the programme is having on the pupils. It is important that it is assessed as assessment increases, “motivation and improves learning, it provides feedback about pupils’ progress and achievements, and how their learning might be improved; it helps pupils to reflect on and identify what they have learned and what they need to do to continue their learning; it allows the leadership team, governors and school inspectors to see the impact the provision is having for pupils and whole school outcomes” (PSHE association 2016).

The 2013 Ofsted Report ‘PSHE Not Yet Good Enough’ reported that:
- By far the weakest aspect of teaching was the assessment of pupils’ learning which was often less robust for PSHE education than for other subjects.
- In too many schools teachers’ expectations of the quality of pupils’ work was too low.
- Teachers did not always check pupils’ previous learning in PSHE resulting in work being repeated and was often unchallenging.
- Teachers failed to formally identify attainment and progress and therefore rarely provided feedback on how to improve

The report recommends that schools should:
- Implement systems to effectively track pupils’ progress in PSHE education
- Raise teachers expectations of the quality of pupils work in PSHE to ensure it is commensurate with expectations of pupils work in other subjects

The 2013 Ofsted Report ‘Citizenship consolidated’ reported that:
- Teacher’s use of assessment in lessons was the weakest aspect of teaching
• In primary schools little attention was paid to formal assessment procedures or reporting on pupils' learning and progress in Citizenship (the specific citizenship knowledge, understanding or skills)
• In secondary schools, assessment procedures were insecure and remains a key weakness due to:
  • Teaching of citizenship did not always make formal assessments against citizenship objectives
  • Poor quality of marking and limited range of assessments which were often of minimal value in identifying students’ next steps

The report recommends that schools should:
• Continue to improve the quality of teaching and assessment in citizenship by ensuring that all staff who deliver citizenship education receive the necessary training to teach it effectively (increase the knowledge and understanding of the key concepts that underpin effective citizenship education)

Assessment in PSHE and Citizenship should therefore consider:
• Baseline assessment to determine learners starting points (data from the Growing Up In North Yorkshire Survey is a useful starting point). It is very important for PSHE and Citizenship to establish:
  • What children already know and understand?
  • What they have misunderstood?
  • What gaps they have in their knowledge
  • What preconceptions/prejudices may have to be challenged
• The PSHE association argue that the model of assessment that is most meaningful for PSHE is 'ipsative assessment' when a pupil compares their own results against their previous results in a similar way to an athlete measuring todays performance against their own previous performance.
• Assessment for Learning (formative assessment) - regular assessment of pupils’ progress against the intended learning outcomes is important to ensure that learners are making expected progress and to inform planning for subsequent lessons and units of work.
• Providing effective and regular feedback to pupils
• There are three recognised models of assessment: pupil self-assessment, peer/group assessment and teacher assessment. Pupil self-assessment is about learners being able to assess their current knowledge and identify the next steps in their learning, setting their own targets and monitoring their own progress. Peer assessment is about learners providing feedback to each other; assessing other pupils’ work can help learners to clarify their own ideas and understanding of both the learning objectives and assessment criteria. Teacher assessment is about teacher observations and reviews of written work and pupils' contributions to discussions and end-of unit tasks.
• Assessment of Learning (summative assessment) - the North Yorkshire progression ladder for PSHE and Citizenship may be used to assess, record and report learners progress.

North Yorkshire PSHE and Citizenship ladder of progression
This has been developed in partnership with schools to help support schools develop assessment methods that fit in with the schools assessment approach and enables the assessment to be through pupil, peer and teacher assessment. There is reference to both knowledge and skill development alongside the type of questions that can be used to support assessing pupils learning in PSHE and develop their critical thinking skills.

Resources to support the teaching of the PSHE and Citizenship entitlement framework up-dated September 2017

All weblinks were correct at time of release

The majority of resources identified in this list are free for schools to access and will help to support the teaching and learning across a range of topics in the PSHE and Citizenship entitlement framework. It is acknowledge that there are further resources available and those contained within the list are only suggestions that are not being endorsed by NYCC but they have either been suggested by schools or developed by reputable organisations to help support the delivery of effective PSHE and Citizenship. Before using any of the resources a school needs to make themselves familiar with the resource and ensure it meets the schools ethos and needs of their pupils. The resources have only been placed in suggested year groups, they can be used in alternative years groups based on the needs of the pupils in the school. Some resources have lesson plans that go across the key stages which is why they are listed under a number of year groups.

Appendix 1 – PSHE and Citizenship education and Ofsted

The following section relates only to aspects in connection with a planned PSHE and Citizenship provision the Ofsted documents should be looked at to ensure a school is covering all aspects that are required on a whole school basis. Information on Ofsted has been taken from the School Inspection handbook and Inspecting safeguarding in early years, education and skills setting from September 2016.

Ofsted will look at the schools website prior to an inspection and will be looking for as well as other aspects, ‘the statutory sharing with parents of curriculum information (so the lead inspector can start to assess the breadth and balance of the school’s curriculum and whether it is likely to promote preparation for and an appreciation of life in modern Britain), the presence and suitability of the safeguarding guidance, and information about the promotion of equality of opportunity and other information for parents.

Inspectors will request the following information at the start of the inspection and will speak to pupils during the inspection:
- records and analysis of bullying, discriminatory and prejudicial behaviour, either directly or indirectly, including racist, sexist, disability and homophobic bullying, use of derogatory language and racist incidents
- During informal conversations with pupils, inspectors must ask them about their experiences of learning and behaviour in the school, including the prevention of bullying and how the school deals with discrimination and prejudiced behaviour, if they happen.

Inspectors will make key judgements on the following areas:
- overall effectiveness
- effectiveness of leadership and management
- quality of teaching, learning and assessment
- personal development, behaviour and welfare
outcomes for pupils.

Ofsted Overall Effectiveness
Before making the final judgement on the overall effectiveness, inspectors must evaluate: the effectiveness and impact of the provision for pupils’ spiritual, moral, social and cultural development.

The outstanding grade descriptor for overall effectiveness states:
- ‘The school’s thoughtful and wide-ranging promotion of pupils’ spiritual, moral, social and cultural development and their physical well-being enables pupils to thrive’

The good grade descriptor for overall effectiveness states:
- ‘Deliberate and effective action is taken to promote pupils’ spiritual, moral, social and cultural development and their physical well-being.

Ofsted’s Definition of spiritual, moral, social and cultural development
The spiritual development of pupils is shown by their:
- ability to be reflective about their own beliefs, religious or otherwise, that inform their perspective on life and their interest in and respect for different people’s faiths, feelings and values
- sense of enjoyment and fascination in learning about themselves, others and the world around them
- use of imagination and creativity in their learning
- willingness to reflect on their experiences.

The moral development of pupils is shown by their:
- ability to recognise the difference between right and wrong and to readily apply this understanding in their own lives, recognise legal boundaries and, in so doing, respect the civil and criminal law of England
- understanding of the consequences of their behaviour and actions
- interest in investigating and offering reasoned views about moral and ethical issues and ability to understand and appreciate the viewpoints of others on these issues.

The social development of pupils is shown by their:
- use of a range of social skills in different contexts, for example working and socialising with other pupils, including those from different religious, ethnic and socio-economic backgrounds
- willingness to participate in a variety of communities and social settings, including by volunteering, cooperating well with others and being able to resolve conflicts effectively
acceptance and engagement with the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs; they develop and demonstrate skills and attitudes that will allow them to participate fully in and contribute positively to life in modern Britain.

The cultural development of pupils is shown by their:

- understanding and appreciation of the wide range of cultural influences that have shaped their own heritage and those of others
- understanding and appreciation of the range of different cultures within school and further afield as an essential element of their preparation for life in modern Britain
- knowledge of Britain's democratic parliamentary system and its central role in shaping our history and values, and in continuing to develop Britain
- willingness to participate in and respond positively to artistic, musical, sporting and cultural opportunities
- interest in exploring, improving understanding of and showing respect for different faiths and cultural diversity and the extent to which they understand, accept, respect and celebrate diversity, as shown by their tolerance and attitudes towards different religious, ethnic and socio-economic groups in the local, national and global communities.

Ofsted Effectiveness of leadership and management - In making this judgement in schools, inspectors will consider:

- the design, implementation and evaluation of the curriculum, ensuring breadth and balance and its impact on pupils' outcomes and their personal, development, behaviour and welfare
- how well the school prepares pupils positively for life in modern Britain and promotes the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect for and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs and for those without faith
- how well leaders and governors promote all forms of equality and foster greater understanding of and respect for people of all faiths (and those of no faith), races, genders, ages, disability and sexual orientations (and other groups with protected characteristics), through their words, actions and influence within the school and more widely in the community
- the effectiveness of safeguarding
- the effectiveness of leaders' and governors' work to raise awareness and keep pupils safe from the dangers of abuse, sexual exploitation, radicalisation and extremism and what the staff do when they suspect that pupils are vulnerable to these issues.

Ofsted Quality of teaching, learning and assessment - In making this judgement in schools, inspectors will evaluate the extent to which:

- teachers and other staff have consistently high expectations of what each pupil can achieve, including most able and disadvantaged pupils
- teachers and other staff have a secure understanding of the age group they are working with and have relevant subject knowledge that is detailed and communicated well to pupils
- assessment information is gathered from looking at what pupils already know, understand and can do, and is informed by their parents/previous providers as appropriate in the early years.
equality of opportunity and recognition of diversity are promoted through teaching and learning

English, mathematics and the skills necessary to function as an economically active member of British society are promoted through teaching and learning.

Ofsted Personal development, behaviour and welfare- Inspectors must make a clear written judgement about behaviour and a separate clear written judgement about personal development and welfare in the report. Where the judgements differ, the lower of the two will determine the overall judgement for personal development, behaviour and welfare and is recorded in the report.

The Good Grade descriptors for personal development, behaviour and welfare – (in relation to PSHE and Citizenship)

- Pupils are confident and self-assured. They take pride in their work, their school and their appearance.
- Pupils’ attitudes to all aspects of their learning are consistently positive. These positive attitudes have a good impact on the progress they make.
- Pupils show respect for others’ ideas and views.
- In secondary schools, pupils use impartial careers guidance to make choices about the next stage of their education, employment, self-employment or training.
- Parents, staff and pupils have no well-founded concerns about personal development, behaviour and welfare.
- Teachers and other adults are quick to tackle the rare use of derogatory or aggressive language and always challenge stereotyping.
- Teachers and other adults promote clear messages about the impact of bullying and prejudiced behaviour on pupils’ well-being. Pupils work well with the school to tackle and prevent the rare occurrences of bullying.
- The school’s open culture promotes all aspects of pupils’ welfare. Pupils are safe and feel safe. They have opportunities to learn how to keep themselves safe. They enjoy learning about how to stay healthy and about emotional and mental health, safe and positive relationships and how to prevent misuse of technology.
- Pupils’ spiritual, moral, social and cultural development ensures that they are prepared to be reflective about and responsible for their actions as good citizens.

Ofsted Inspectors will judge the effectiveness of the 16 to 19 study programmes, inspectors will consider:

- learners receive high quality impartial careers guidance that prepares them for their chosen next steps and enables them to make well-informed decisions about their future plans
- learners develop personal, social, employability and independent learning skills and achieve high levels of punctuality, attendance and conduct, including through the contribution of non-qualification or enrichment activities and/or work experience
- learners understand how to keep themselves safe and healthy, both physically and emotionally

Ofsted Inspecting safeguarding in early years, education and skills settings
Ofsted’s aim is to ensure safe and secure provision for children and learners across all remits through effective inspection and regulation. Safeguarding the welfare of children and learners is part of Ofsted’s core business for all staff, who are expected to be aware of their responsibilities in this regard.

Safeguarding action may be needed to protect children and learners from:

- neglect
- physical abuse
- sexual abuse
- emotional abuse
- bullying, including online bullying and prejudice-based bullying
- racist, disability and homophobic or transphobic abuse
- gender-based violence/violence against women and girls
- radicalisation and/or extremist behaviour
- child sexual exploitation and trafficking
- the impact of new technologies on sexual behaviour, for example sexting and accessing pornography
- teenage relationship abuse
- substance misuse
- issues that may be specific to a local area or population, for example gang activity and youth violence
- domestic violence
- female genital mutilation
- forced marriage
- fabricated or induced illness
- poor parenting, particularly in relation to babies and young children
- other issues not listed here but that pose a risk to children, young people and vulnerable adults.

Safeguarding is not just about protecting children, learners and vulnerable adults from deliberate harm, neglect and failure to act. It relates to broader aspects of care and education, including (these are the ones relating to PSHE and Citizenship there are more listed):

- children’s and learners’ health and safety and well-being, including their mental health
- online safety and associated issues
- appropriate arrangements to ensure children’s and learners’ security, taking into account the local context.

Ofsted the signs of successful safeguarding arrangements (that PSHE and Citizenship could contribute to):
- Children and learners are protected and helped to keep themselves safe from bullying, homophobic behaviour, racism, sexism and other forms of discrimination. Any discriminatory behaviours are challenged and help and support are given to children about how to treat others with respect.
- Adults understand the risks posed by adults or learners who use technology, including the internet, to bully, groom, radicalise or abuse children or learners. They have well-developed strategies in place to keep children and learners safe and to support them to develop their own understanding of these risks and in learning how to keep themselves and others safe. Leaders oversee the safe use of technology when children and learners are in their care and take action immediately if they are concerned about bullying or children’s well-being. Leaders of early years settings implement the required policies with regard to the safe use of mobile phones and cameras in settings.

Ofsted Inspectors will want to consider evidence that:
- action is taken to ensure children are taught about safeguarding risks, including online risks
- there is a clear approach to implementing the Prevent duty and keeping children and learners safe from the dangers of radicalisation and extremism
- the setting takes effective action to prevent and tackle discriminatory and derogatory language – this includes language that is derogatory about disabled people and homophobic and racist language
- children and learners are able to understand, respond to and calculate risk effectively, for example risks associated with child sexual exploitation, domestic violence, female genital mutilation, forced marriage, substance misuse, gang activity, radicalisation and extremism, and are aware of the support available to them
- staff, leaders and managers understand the risks posed by adults or young people who use the internet to bully, groom or abuse children, young people and vulnerable adults; there are well-developed strategies in place to keep learners safe and to support them in learning how to keep themselves safe
- staff, leaders and managers oversee the safe use of electronic and social media by staff and learners and take action immediately if they are concerned about bullying or risky behaviour

Ofsted arriving at judgements about safeguarding arrangements
- Inspectors will consider the extent to which leaders, managers and those responsible for governance ensure that arrangements to protect children and learners meet statutory requirements, are compliant with guidance, and promote their welfare and prevent radicalisation and extremism. The evidence for this will contribute to the inspectors’ evaluation of the effectiveness of safeguarding. Evidence gathered in relation to attendance, behaviour – for example bullying – and how well children and learners understand how to keep themselves safe may also contribute, to a greater or lesser degree, to this judgement. Staff in settings need to be particularly sensitive to signs that may indicate possible safeguarding concerns. These could include, for example, poor or irregular attendance, persistent lateness, children missing from education, forced marriage or female genital mutilation.
Inspectors will make a judgement on the personal development, behaviour and welfare of children and learners by evaluating, where applicable, the extent to which the provision is successfully promoting and supporting children’s and learners’ safety. In order to make this judgement, inspectors will consider, among other things, children’s and learners’ understanding of how to keep themselves safe from relevant risks such as exploitation and extremism, including when using the internet and social media. Inspectors should include online safety in their discussions with pupils and learners (covering topics such as online bullying and safe use of the internet and social media). Inspectors should investigate what the school or further education and skills provider does to educate pupils in online safety and how the provider or school deals with issues when they arise.

In relation to early years, inspectors should consider how staff promote young children’s understanding of how to keep themselves safe from relevant risks and how this is monitored across the provision.

Partners in School Agreement Form
Supporting the Personal, Social, Health, Citizenship and Economic Education

The aim of this document is to ensure that both the school and the external partners are mutually aware of the other’s expectations and to ensure that a high quality teaching and learning session is the guaranteed outcome. To ensure the pupils benefit fully from the contribution of the partner agency the following form needs to be completed and the planning checklist needs to be considered prior to the session running in the school.
